G. O. P. Senators Rap President on Bonus Stand

LAFOLLETTE HITS SPEECH TO SENATE AS 'INTERFERENCE'

In Hot Discussion, Major-ity Members Both Criticise and Defend Harding for Action.

BORAH SAYS ACTION OF SENATE 'PITIALE'

Idaho Senator Says He Resents "Throwing Down Bill Because the President Opposed It."

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, August 22.—President Harding's appearance before the senate last month in opposition to passage of the soldiers' bonus bill started a storm of debate in the senate tonight, when the shipping board deficiency bill was being considered, during which his course was criticised and defended.

The discussion was started by Senator LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, who referred to the resolution introduced in the house by Representative Cockran, democrat, New York, criticising the president for addressing one branch of congress on pending legislation.

Senator Lodge, the republican leader, called attention to the "peace without victory" speech of former President Wilson to the senate prior to American entrance into the war and his addresses later on the suffrage amendment.

It would be a sad day, the Massachusetts senator said, for the public, when any of the three branches of the government could not confer with another.

Borah Criticized.

Declaring it was not necessary, "either to criticize or eulogize Mr. Harding," Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, said that on the question of the bonus, "we surrendered our judgment to his dictation. If the president wanted the bonus, there was plenty, he declared, adding that this did not change the situation."

Mr. LaFollette assailed the president for what he described as executive interference with the legislative branch of the government. He asserted that the president was brought into the debate to prevent passage of the bill and that his action was without authority under the constitution.

"It were if that black page in the senate's history could be destroyed and forever forgotten," Mr. LaFollette declared.

It was remarkable that alarm should seize the president's mind when the soldiers' bonus bill was pending and appear at the senate to rescue the nation's finances from utter destruction."

Lodge Upholds President.

Mr. Lodge declared he saw "no reason for debating" the president from congress and Senator Knox, republican, Pennsylvania, interjected with: "And I see no reason why congress could be debared from the white house, as has occurred in the past eight years."

Mr. Lodge also cited numerous constitutional provisions which he said gave the president full authority to address either branch of congress at his pleasure, saying it would be impossible for the president to speak to both houses if only one were in session.

Asserting that he never had heard "such a violent denunciation of Wilson," as had been directed at Mr. Harding, Senator Kellogg, republican, Minnesota, said he was unable to understand the reason for it.

Mr. Borah explained that he was in full accord with the president on the bonus question but that his criticism was aimed at the appearance of the president, whether Mr. Wilson or Mr. Harding.

"Pitiable Spectacle."

"But I am unable to find anything like it prior to the Wilson administration," he said. "With all due respect, I know of no more pitiable spectacle ever presented to the people than that of the senate in throwing down the bonus bill after it had been reported and the president had come here to oppose it. It was because he came here that we surrendered our judgment to his dictation."

"The republican party had made a solemn pledge for enactment of bonus legislation. There was not an item in the president's message that was not before us. We had made the bill the unfinished business and had given the assurance it would be pushed and passed. It would have passed if it had been put to a vote."

Show Forgotten When Plastering Of House Falls

Chorus Girls Lose Attraction and Patrons Make Rush for Door.

BY CLIFFORD NEAR.
Baldheaded men reposing under electric fans. A jazz orchestra syn- copating. Chorus girls in pink silk tights kicking to prodigious height. Other men, young and old; then more men and a sprinkling of women in the audience.

All were smiling, particularly the chorus girls; everybody was happy and interested.

The spotlight hit the stage direct and threw into startling prominence the prancing shoe-eyed chorus and the inevitable burnt-cork artist with his broadest grin.

The gaze of a front row habitue wandered for a moment toward the ceiling.

"Look, Oscar," he whispered in a strident hiss.

"Oh, boy, I'm looking," replied Oscar without removing his eyes from the stage.

And then the crash: A downward rush of billowing white and an ensuing blinding, choking dust.

Baldheads took on a paler hue. Bright colors of coats and dresses were lost in the blanching cloud. The chorus performers lost time with the jangling orchestra.

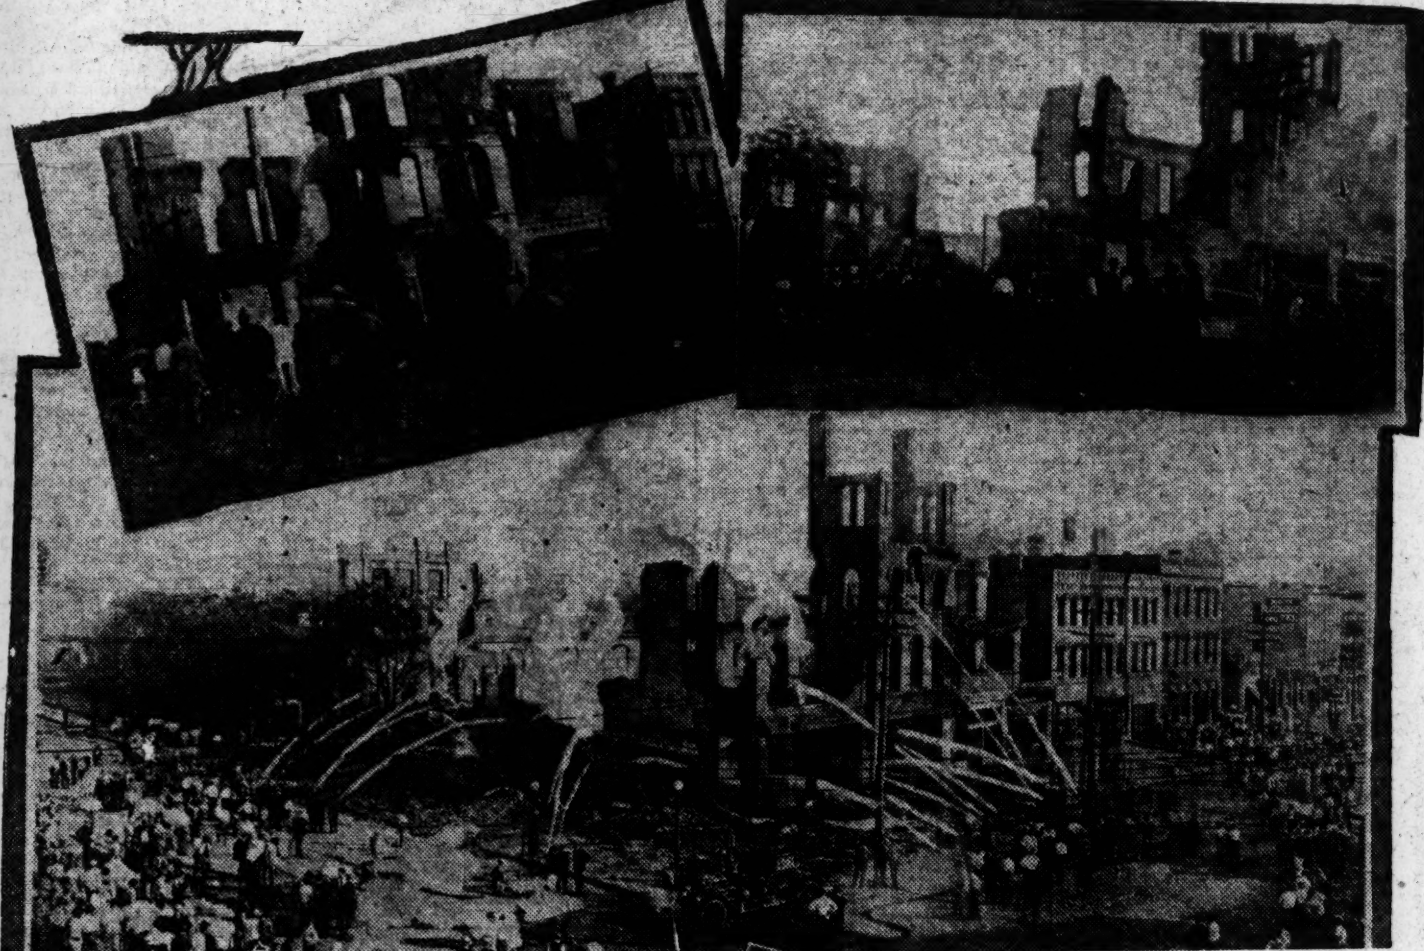

Then impulse for safety overcame fright, and there was a rush for the door.

No one was hurt. A few straw hats were smashed and a fat woman fainted, but the show went on. The chorus pranced in pink tights and sang in falsetto as usual. The orchestra jazzed its regular jazz.

All this happened Monday afternoon at the Bonita theater near Five Points. Somebody said he thought the world was coming to an end with an accompanying snow-storm instead of the proverbial deluge of fire. Another thought one of the chorus girls had kicked too high and dislocated the ceiling.

The puzzle was solved, however, when the manager explained that the high pressure of the typhoon air cooling system had caused the plastering to fall.

Death List in Macon Fire Still Incomplete, Workers to Continue Search of Tragic Pyre

View of Macon's Conflagration.

Center, a bird's-eye scene taken as the fire was brought under control early Monday morning. The view is from above the intersection of Plum street and Broadway. On the left side of the destroyed Brown house stood the telephone pole to which a man, with a child on his back, jumped to safety. Upper left: Looking east from the corner of Broadway and Plum streets. In the piazza, on the third floor of the Brown house, three dead bodies were found Monday morning. Lower left: This view shows at the left the complete destruction which was wrought to the Brunner drug store by the explosion which preceded the fire. Many people were forced to jump from the third floor windows while others climbed to safety down the big "Brown House" sign. Upper right: Another view of the Brown house. From the third floor windows in the ruined wall three men jumped, including J. K. Hayes and Harry Swansburg, of Atlanta, losing their lives in the leap to a pile of slag below.

GEORGIA WILL GET LARGE PROPORTION OF FARMER FUND

Agricultural Relief Bill, Supplying Billion Dollars for Loans to Farmers, Passes House.

HARDING EXPECTED TO SIGN BILL SOON

Lankford Amendment Makes All Agricultural Negotiable Instruments Objects of Loans.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, August 22.—With a number of amendments the senate bill which would make one billion dollars available through the War Finance corporation for stimulating exportation of agricultural products was passed today by the house.

Only 21 representatives voted against the bill while 314 voted for it.

The house eliminated senate sections authorizing the purchase by the War Finance corporation of $200,000,000 worth of farm loan bonds and the creation of a new bureau in the department of commerce to obtain information as to trade conditions abroad. The house further overruled the action of its committee in eliminating a section which would permit government loans to accredited foreign exporters in exportation of American products, but added an amendment providing for rigid restriction of such loans.

Another house amendment would fix June 30, 1922, as the date on which liquidation of the War Finance corporation would begin with the capital stock of the corporation cancelled in proportion to the surplus funds turned into the treasury.

By a vote of 198 to 136, the house rejected a motion to recommit the bill, offered by Representative Wingo, democrat, Arkansas, to reinsert the eliminated senate provision for purchase of $200,000,000 worth of farm loan bonds and to add an amendment authorizing the War Finance corporation to make direct loans to agriculturists.

Efforts will be made, Chairman Fadden, of banking committee, said, to obtain an agreement between the house and senate on disputed provisions of the bill so it can be sent to the president before the forthcoming recess.

MEETING CALLED TO SHOW VOTERS NEED OF REFORM

A. McD. Wilson Summons Jurymen to Assemble at Courthouse to Consider Campaign Plans.

WOULD "PERPETUATE CLEAN GOVERNMENT"

Meeting Will Mean Business, Declares Wilson. Will Take Up Candidates for Council.

Members of the four Fulton county grand juries, who successively made presentations urging a clean-up of the police department of Atlanta, following Solicitor-General Boykin's revelations of the political activities of Floyd Woodward's bunco band, have been called to meet at the courthouse at 3 o'clock today to form ways and means by which the recommendations they made will be heard from in the city primaries of August 31.

The meeting was called by A. McD. Wilson, foreman of the November grand jury, the body that made the first general charges against the police department. The call has been approved by D. O. Martin, foreman of the second grand jury, the body that called for the defeat of J. W. Maddox as police commissioner; Col. W. L. Peel, the foreman of the grand jury which indicted Detectives Shaw, Payne and West and Councilman Al Martin; and C. D. Montgomery, the foreman of the present grand jury, which exonerated the subject of Solicitor-General Boykin's charges looking toward his impeachment.

The list of the grand jurors on the four bodies forms one of the most formidable assemblages of representative Atlanta ever called for a political purpose.

Speaking of the meeting Monday afternoon, Mr. Wilson declared "we are just getting together to see what we can do to obtain and perpetuate clean government, the thing that all four grand juries urged in their presentations. We have no set program outlined, but you can say that the meeting of Tuesday means business."

It is known, however, that the meeting will take up candidates for the various aldermanic and councilmanic posts to be chosen at the primary. Not one of the grand juries hesitated to say that a sinister political influence had been at work which had played no small part in the general disorganization of the police department, and the third grand jury did not hesitate to say that these same sinister influences were directly responsible for the defeat of the majority report of the police investigating committee before the general council.

Mr. Wilson says that a large attendance of former grand jurors is assured.

INCREASE IN TAX URGED AT RALLIES

Appeals for Favorable Action Also Made by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson and President W. W. Gaines.

Atlanta's tax increase campaign was given impetus Monday when the question was discussed at three public meetings and support of the raise was urged in statements issued by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, well-known leader in women's activities, and W. W. Gaines, president of the board of education.

Monday night Mayor Key, W. A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, and other prominent leaders spoke at a meeting of the North Boulevard Park Civic league, and at a rally at Crew Street school, and Monday afternoon the mayor addressed the public school teachers and directors at a meeting held at the Commercial High school auditorium.

The mayor told the teachers that unless the tax rate is increased from $1.15 to $1.50 in the referendum of August 31, the city will be compelled to cut all teachers' salaries 33 1/3 per cent next year.

Mrs. Richardson's Appeal.

In her statement Mrs. Richardson appealed to the fathers and mothers of Atlanta's school children to vote for the tax rate increase. "In trying to awaken some people to their responsibility to the school and to the children of Atlanta on the question of the tax raise, we are often confronted with the statement, 'We have heard this same cry many times before, but each time the emergency has been met by an emergency tax which relieved the situation. We are getting tired of the ever recurring cry; maybe we are not altogether satisfied with all men and conditions, even with the present form of government. For the sake of argument we will admit all this. Over against it, however, is the fact that the emergency tax this year has been enjoined; there is no relief in sight, and the schools will close unless the tax is raised."

Call for His Wife.

His last minutes, according to those who tended him, were spent in pleading repetition of his pet name for his wife. He died at 10:54 o'clock Monday morning. His wife, hysterical, reached the city of Georgia city at 12:10 on the first train to leave Atlanta after a telephone message in the early morning hours had apprised her of her husband's serious injuries.

He always wore a diamond, valued at $1,000, a valuable gold watch, and usually carried a considerable amount of money on his person. When he was taken into the Macon hospital emergency room, he called Dr. Yesmans, interne, to him. "Give these to my wife when she arrives, and tell her to come on the first train. I want to see her before I die," he said.

He handed to the interne the costly diamond, his railroad timepiece and his wallet. As soon as Dr. Yesmans could locate Mrs. Swansburg, at the home of J. W. Howard, in the Maynard apartments, tonight he personally delivered the articles to her.

Swansburg Dies Praying to See Wife Before End

With Death Near, He Gives Ring and Watch to Doctor to Keep for Her.

A still more tragic touch to a scene of wholesale tragedy was added to the fire which destroyed the Brown house in Macon Monday in the death of Harry Swansburg, 58, an Atlantan, of 61 East Cain street, who died praying that he might live until his wife could reach his side. He clung to this hope for hours after doctors had declared his last chance gone and his wife arrived in Macon scarcely more than an hour after he had breathed his last. He had leaped from a third story window after being trapped by flames.

Mr. Swansburg, an engineer on the Central of Georgia railroad, was well known and exceedingly popular in the railroad fraternity of Atlanta. He is said to have been the best-known of all the Central's locomotive engineers and his death has caused profound sorrow among his friends.

BURGLARS LOOT PAXON RESIDENCE

$4,000 Loss in Jewelry and Other Articles Reported to Police—Detectives at Work.

The home of Colonel F. J. Paxon, of the Davidson-Paxon-Stokes company, at 17 Seventeenth street, was burglarized Saturday night while Mr. Paxon was in Asheville, N. C., and jewelry and clothing to the value of $4,000 were taken, according to announcement made Monday by the detective department.

Among the articles stolen were a black pearl stickpin valued at $2,300, a set of furs $600, two gowns $200 each, a diamond stickpin and garnet pin with a Tiffany setting.

The burglary was discovered by Mr. Paxon's butler, who came to the house early Sunday morning and found the doors torn off their hinges, windows broken and the interior of the house ransacked. He immediately called neighbors and an examination was made.

Colonel Paxon was then called over long distance. He arrived in Atlanta Sunday afternoon.

Detectives Cason and Cochran were put on the case as soon as report of the robbery reached the detective department, and are now busy at work.

According to neighbors, windows and doors had been removed noisily by the burglars; and the interior of the house had been gone over thoroughly, indicating that the robbers were discriminating and assured of having plenty of time in which to work.

Another burglary reported to the police Monday was that of the home of Joseph Ragan, 233 West Peachtree street, which was broken into while the family was away on a week-end vacation. The principal items in this case were also clothing and jewelry. The loss was estimated at approximately $400. A lavalliere, a necklace set with arguiole, a Scottish Brite ring and a Thirty-third degree Masonic ring were taken. Detectives were alerted at work on the case, but as yet no clues to either robbery have been found.

Number Known Missing Mounts to Eight—Search in Ruins to Be Resumed at Dawn.

Macon, Ga., August 22.—Search in the ruins of the Brown house, which was destroyed by fire early today, stopped at sundown tonight. More than a dozen bodies are believed to be buried in the debris and four lives are known to have been lost as a result of the blaze.

Building Inspector F. Joe Bishop, in charge of the hunt for bodies, announced that the search would be resumed at daylight tomorrow by 100 convicts from the county and city chaingangs.

"We will know before noon," he said, "just how many bodies are in the debris. We expect to find at least twelve, possibly more. I can almost put my fingers on the spot where I believe there are two bodies."

Coroner Lee Weges announced this afternoon that the coroner's jury had concluded that an explosion of escaping gas in the basement of the Brunner Drug company caused the fire.

New Identification.

The charred body that had been identified as Henry Turnipseed, a blacksmith, of Hampton, Ga., was identified tonight as that of John Collins, 20, of Rentz, Ga., a clerk in Loh's cafe, in this city.

Turnipseed's father, J. L. Turnipseed, who identified the body as that of his son, and had arranged for sending it to Hampton, viewed it again tonight and said he might be mistaken. Henry R. Turnipseed, of Atlanta, a brother of Henry Turnipseed, also said he thought his father had been mistaken.

The identification of the body as that of Collins was made by Charles Collins, machinist's mate of the navy, home on a furlough, and two other brothers.

The other charred body was identified tonight as that of C. H. Pease, son of Calvin Pease, of Pineview, Ga., by Beay Grinstead, a vocational education student at the Georgia-Alabama Business college.

Hole Torn by Blast.

The blast out a hole through the hotel from the basement to the roof, tore out the stairways and wrecked the elevator after driving it upward. Fire escapes at the rear of the building were enveloped in flames an instant later, and fire was bursting from every window in the big brick structure.

It is understood that the state

ROME TAKES HAND IN ERIN, RUMORED

Roman Catholic Bishop Arrives in Dublin With Message From "Highest Authority"

Dublin, August 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—The "highest authority," as the Roman Catholic church is known in Ireland, has intervened in the Irish peace negotiations. The Most Rev. Edward Mulhern, lord bishop of Down, came to Dublin tonight with a message from the "highest authority," which he delivered to Eamon de Valera and the other Sinn Fein leaders. There were long consultations over the message.

Asked whether the message came from "the cardinal," meaning Cardinal Logue, the primate of Ireland, a priest, who accompanied Monsignor Mulhern, replied in the negative. This was considered in some circles here as possibly meaning that Rome had intervened.

Secret Sessions.

The Daily Freeman held two secret sessions today to consider the question of what shall be its reply to the British government's peace offer. It adjourned tonight without having arrived at any decision, but will meet again tomorrow in private. PANAMA PREPARED FOR COSTA RICANS

Panama, August 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Panama is prepared and ready to repel the Costa Ricans should they invade the disputed Coto territory. No definite action will be taken, however, until it has been learned what attitude the United States government will adopt toward Panama in the event the Panamanians oppose the taking over of Coto by the Costa Ricans.

Cable messages sent by the Panamanian government to Washington with the view of ascertaining the American government's attitude toward Panamanian resistance to Costa Rican occupation of Coto have not been answered.

CRUISER TAKES MORE MARINES

Boston, August 22.—The United States cruiser Galveston, commanded by Captain Clarence S. Kempff, left the Charlestown navy yard late Monday for Hampton Roads where she will pick up a detachment of marines for duty in the canal zone.

NO TROUBLE FORESEEN

Washington, August 22.—While United States marines were sailing southward today to stand by when Costa Rica snatches her forces into the tiny bit of territory whose ownership Panama has so earnestly and long contested, officials here expressed the opinion they would have a pleasant cruise and probably never fire a rifle. The navy department was requested by the state department to send the marines, and Secretary Denby of the former department, said the action was purely "recautionary." He emphasized that no action was anticipated and the belief generally was felt that the territorial dispute would be amicably adjusted.

Secretary Hughes' note to the government of Panama, published today, definitely declared it the opinion of the state department that there exists "no valid reason" for Costa Rica further to delay the occupation of the disputed territory. The next development growing out of the boundary controversy is expected to be the formal entry by Costa Rican forces of the Coto district on the Pacific coast. Panama forces now there are believed not to number more than five or six police. It is not probable, it was believed here, that Costa Rica would find it necessary to send in to the region more than a company of soldiers at the most and unless unforeseen resistance is offered by the marines, who are being transported on the battleship Pennsylvania, will not be landed.

ARREST OF ALLEGED WOMAN SLAYER NEAR

Nashville, Tenn., August 22.—Requisition papers are being prepared at the governor's office this morning for the return of Miss Maude Moore, charged in Knox county with the murder of LeRoy Harth, and reported under arrest in Tacoma, Wash.

It is reported here that the young woman was identified by the chief of police of Tacoma by photographs sent out by her bondsmen following her departure from Knoxville some time ago. The killing of Harth occurred in 1919, the tragedy being a very sensational one.

WOMAN DETAINED DENIES IDENTITY.

Tacoma, Wash., August 22.—Mrs. William H. Stubbs, wife of a local hotel proprietor, is detained by the police here in the belief that she may be Maude Moore, wanted in Knoxville, Tenn., for murder.

The woman was apprehended last week, but no information was given out by the police until a picture sent to Knoxville had been identified and a description of the woman including a peculiar scar, had been found to tally with the hunted woman. The woman married Stubbs in Olympia, Wash., in November, 1920.

She then gave her name as Helen Hope, of Cleveland.

Maude Moore, according to information here, is wanted for the murder of LeRoy D. Harth, an automobile dealer, which occurred on September 3, 1919. The girl is said to have jumped a $10,000 appeal bond after having been sentenced to 30 years for the murder.

Mrs. Stubbs denies that she is Maude Moore, and declares she was released when two men, now on their way from Knoxville, arrive to identify her.

SIX MEN AND ONE WOMAN ARRESTED; SWINDLING CHARGE

BY JAMES L. KILGALLAN,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, August 22.—Charles W. French, a "genius gone wrong," internationally famous as a master of frenzied finance, and four others, including a woman, under arrest and federal warrants are out for eight others, said to be members of a band which is alleged to have attempted to negotiate a $2,000,000 swindle.

The arrests were made late Monday.

Rudolph Kohn, wealthy vice president of a nationally-known rubber company, was among those taken into custody.

The others were Mrs. C. Q. Hawkins, her husband, C. W. Hawkins, and J. P. Lee, of Cleveland, Ohio.

They are accused by government officials of having formed a gigantic conspiracy to dispose of vast quantities of forged notes. They were trapped in what federal agents say was the last big "clean up" before they fled the country.

WHO IS TO BE BOSS?
The outstanding question to be settled by the people of Atlanta in the municipal primary election of August 31 is the question of who is going to be the "boss" in the Atlanta city government—the people who believe in law enforcement, in honest administration, in civic decency; or the professional few politicians who are in favor of a continuance of the existing conditions?

Here is the situation in a nutshell: Several months ago a Fulton county grand jury, after an impartial investigation, reported a state of affairs in Atlanta that was not only astounding to the sensibilities of the decent element of the people, but that fairly challenged credulity!

It charged that for more than three years an organized band of unscrupulous, confidence men, crooked wire-tappers, gamblers, blind tigers, whisky-runners, etc., had been permitted to operate in Atlanta openly and above board, either through gross incompetence on the part of the police-detective department, or through actual conviction between the officers of the law and the criminal element.

Another grand jury, and another —three in all, one after the other—reported the same thing; and each grand jury recommended certain sweeping changes in the police organization of the city.

The matter was put squarely up to council for action.

A special committee of five was designated to make a thorough investigation of the charges and report back its findings.

After an exhaustive hearing lasting seven months, four members of the committee united in a report fully sustaining the findings and recommendations of the three grand juries.

Action upon this report was deferred for two weeks; then, sufficient time for political juggling and log-rolling and wire-pulling having elapsed, it was brought up for adoption, and virtually nullified by a majority of three votes in council.

Following that the report was rebutted by the police board, regardless of the fact that five of the members of the board voted to act in accordance with it, even though it called for the abolishment of the police commission, the vote standing 5 to 3 in favor of repudiating the reports and recommendations of the three grand juries and the special committee of council.

Subsequently, when the matter was again brought before council for final action, it was referred to the police committee of that body, which is dominated by council members who from the first have voted against its adoption. Therefore, in sending it to the police committee, council substantially committed it to the morgue, for there is no chance of its seeing the light of day so long as the complexion of council remains as it is.

And that constitutes the paramount issue at stake in the forthcoming councilmanic election!

Is it to be dormant, or are the people of Atlanta to be given the benefit of that?

Are a few professional politicians going to decide what sort of government—what sort of police protection—Atlanta is to have?

Or are the people of Atlanta going to assert their right to exercise mastery over their own government affairs?

Are a few politicians, and the element that is in sympathy with crime conditions of the past, to be boss in Atlanta?

Or are the people to be boss?
It is for the voters to answer those questions on election day;
for what they want, they shall have!

TO HELP PEDESTRIANS.

It is as much the duty of the city to help the well-meaning citizen to keep within the law as it is to punish the willful law violator.

It is obviously wrong for the city to punish a citizen for violating a law in a particular instance when there is no way for the citizen to know whether or not he is keeping within the law.

Such is the case at Five Points, with reference to the altogether meritorious law against jaywalking.

Everybody knows by this time that in a general sense jay-walking consists in crossing street intersections diagonally; in crossing streets between blocks except at designated mid-block crossing points; in sauntering along the street between curbs, etc.

Ordinarily common sense is all the guide that is needed at street crossings to prevent unintentional violation of the jay-walking regulation; but not so at Five Points.

At Five Points it is impossible for any pedestrian to cross from the confluence of Edgewood avenue and Peachtree street to the northwest corner of Peachtree and Marietta streets, or from the latter point to the southwest corner of Peachtree and Marietta streets, knowing that he is keeping within the law—that he is not jay-walking, and subjecting himself to the hazard of arrest and punishment!

Ignorance of the law is no legal excuse for law-infraction, it is true; but nevertheless, every citizen has a moral and a legal right to reasonable opportunities to inform himself as to what the law is and as to what constitutes violation of a given law.

The city has collected something more than $7,000 in fines imposed upon traffic law violators with the last few days.

Well and good. Let the good work go on!

But the city could put a small part of that money to no better use than to buy some paint and mark off the legal crossing lanes at Five Points; at the intersections of Peachtree, Broad and Ludlow streets, and at all other points of possible confusion as to the proper and legal course for pedestrians to follow.

The best help to law-enforcement is to make obedience to law and conformity with the law as easy and simple as possible.

And, while painting lines to safeguard against innocent jaywalking, the painter should mark off stop-lines for vehicular traffic at the street intersections, so that when the safety semaphore signals "stop" the waiting pedestrians may have an opportunity to cross the street without precipitantly threading their way through a jam of vehicles waiting for the signal "go."

STILL SUPREME.

That the battleship is still supreme as a weapon—"still the backbone of the fleet and the bulwark of the nation's sea defense," as General Pershing expressed it —was demonstrated by the recent bombing tests off the Virginia capes, according to an opinion rendered by the joint army and navy board.

"The airplane, like the submarine, destroyer and mine," said General Pershing, senior member of the board that conducted the tests, "has added to the dangers to which battleships are exposed, but has not made the battleship obsolete."

The consensus of expert opinion seems to say that as long as disputes between nations are settled by recourse to war; and that so long as the spirit of war remains alive nations will continue building battleships, dreadnaughts and super-dreadnaughts, the existence of each nation depending largely upon its ability to develop weapons of destruction superior to anything of the kind possessed by any other nation—a never-ending cycle of war development!

This will go on, of course, until the idea of war itself is discarded as being obsolete—a relic of primitive savagery.

And it is to be hoped that the international movement looking to that, will be given marked impetus by the forthcoming disarmament conference, which has an opportunity to go a long way toward rendering "obsolete" not only the battleship, but the bombing airplane, the submarine, the destroyer and every other type of naval craft and all manner of facilities for the waging of war either on the high seas or on the land.

The Moors have no airplane experience, and they can't induce French fliers to show 'em how to put one over on the Spaniards.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

FOOD AND TUBERCULOSIS.
The medical theories of a generation ago are the popular delusions of today.

One of the old medical theories of the professional and still retained by the laity is that it is possible to force a tuberculous patient to gain weight by over-eating. Based upon this vain theory, people generally force food upon the tuberculous body as an active healthy individual requires to maintain normal weight.

Untold harm has been done by unwise efforts to coax patients to eat and could not possibly be assimilated.

The feeding of a patient with tuberculosis is not a question to be answered by Tom, Dick and Harry.
It is an individual scientific problem for the physician to solve in each case according to the state of the patient and the extent of the disease.

A tuberculous patient who may possibly be permitted to take some exercise—which is in itself an important problem for the doctor—can conceivably assimilate more food than one whose condition demands absolute avoidance of all exercise.

The tuberculous patient naturally wants more food than the resting patient.

The whole idea of forcing the feeding is based upon misleading standing of the pathology of the disease. Loss of weight in tuberculosis is a result of disease, not a cause. Well nourished individuals that is, individuals whose weight is normal or above normal for age and height, may and often do develop tuberculosis. And individuals considerably too stout are found under treatment for tuberculosis in every large sanatorium.

Forcing the feeding is a risky business, without constant medical supervision and a real necessity nowadays under medical supervision.

Florida's Financial Status

Owes Its Success Largely

To System of Administration

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

Tallahassee, Fla., August 22.— (Special.)—The excellent financial status of Florida's state government is due as largely to the system of administration as to its tax laws, and is an illustration of the force of co-ordination, and the wisdom of placing certain inherent government responsibilities in the hands of small workable "boards" rather than in the hands of any one man, even the governor.

For instance, Sidney J. Catts was governor of Florida for four years until a few months ago. Whether he made a good governor or not is a matter for the people to decide.
He could not, nor can any governor, even vote an appropriation without the consent of the board of control, composed of the governor and his cabinet.

He could not divert the surplus of one department into the temporary deficit account of another because the law prohibits such a diversion and the treasurer cannot and will not honor the warrant of the governor unless it is countersigned by the comptroller, as the law requires.

He could not run against a saga, and that is why I mention it.
The governor can do nothing that really involves the fiscal system or status of the state without the record action of the board of control, which is composed of the governor and his cabinet, the legislature, the heads of the state government mental department, the state government, comptroller, superintendent of public education, and
so on.

State Managed Like Corporation.
In other words, the state of Florida is "managed" like a corporation in that the governor is a four-year "president," the heads of the departments are his "directors," the members of the assembly, are the stockholders. If the president wants to do anything within the provisions of the corporation's charter and by-law—the constitution and laws of Florida—he calls his cabinet—the board of control—together and the whole body must act—no one man. No governor, however wild may be his views and policies, can destroy or tear down the fiscal system of the state without the record action of the board of control, which is composed of the governor and his cabinet, the legislature, the heads of the state government, comptroller, superintendent of public education, and
so on.

How Florida Authorizes a Levy.
It is interesting to know just how Florida provides for the levying of ad valorem taxes, consistent with the provisions of the constitution. The state is divided into poration. The legislature has the power to authorize a levy of ad valorem taxes, but it must be

and his cabinet, the legislature, the heads of the state government, comptroller, superintendent of public education, and so on.

TROOPS ON GUARD AT MURDER TRIAL

Mount Vernon, Ky., August 22.—With twenty-five national guardsmen from London and twenty special deputies, sheriffs on guard, the Rock Castle county courthouse presented a martial appearance as the case of John Bailey, Jr., alleged slayer of Beverly White, was called for trial here today. Bailey's case was brought here on a change of venue from Knox county, where the slaying occurred. Approximately 100 members of the Bailey-Lee clan and the Whites, opposing factions in the most bitter mountain feud that has torn eastern Kentucky in recent years, were present for the opening of the trial. The troops and special deputies were summoned to keep down any possible flare up of the feudal spirit that in the last few years has caused a number of deaths on both sides of the mountain war and which in the last quarter of a century has resulted in possibly a score of killings.

Judge B. J. Bethune, who is conducting the court here, asked for special guards for the courtroom. Major James L. Dillon, in charge of the guardsmen, has issued warning to the clansmen against carrying concealed weapons during the trial.

The killing, for which Bailey is to be tried, occurred on April 7 last at Heidrick's station near Barvourville. Bailey was with his father, William Bailey; a brother, James Bailey, and a deputy sheriff named Perry, took to the woods but surrendered two days later and was taken to the Harlan county jail. Later he was transferred to Mount Vernon and then to Louisville and finally granted bail at Mount Vernon. John Bailey was indicted on the charge of wilful murder and for this he is to be tried. His father, brother and Perry have been indicted on the charge of conspiracy to murder Beverly White and their cases already are set for this term.

Although the best of order is being kept here by the state troops and special deputies, the White and Bailey-Lee clans present somewhat the appearance of warring parties preparing to leap at one another. The Whites have made the Rock Castle hotel headquarters for their adherents, while the Baileys and Lees are putting up at a boarding house. On the street one seldom sees a member of one clan on the same side with members of the other.

When court hour approached this morning, according to officials, there was no indication of a continuance of the case.

Common Sense In Watch Buying

In buying a watch it is not advisable to select one like you would pick out a suit of clothes, or other articles you expect to replace from time to time. A watch, correctly purchased, should last you a lifetime.

Having handled practically all makes for thirty-four years, our experience is naturally worth something to watch buyers.

Our stock is new and up to date, with a good assortment of sizes and styles of the makes we know from experience to be the finest timekeepers.

DESPONDENT MAN DRINKS CARBOLIC ACID AND DIES

R. T. Robinson, 30 years old, who lived on McDaniel street, committed suicide Monday at the home of his father-in-law, E. K. Shively, near the Bellwood convict camp, by drinking carbolic acid. County Police Officer Cal Cates started immediately with him in an automobile for the Grady hospital, but he died on the way into the city. Despondency was given as the cause of the action. Both of Robinson's legs were amputated some time ago and he had since been unable to do any work.

According to hospital authorities, Robinson had attempted suicide in May by taking iodine, but prompt action had saved his life. His wife had started divorce proceedings. It is understood, and this accentuated the man's despondency over his condition. He is survived by his widow.

MERGER FRIENDS PLAN CAMPAIGN

With addresses by R. F. Gilliam and J. R. Boehman, Kirkwood citizens in favor of annexation, at a meeting Monday night made a final appeal in favor of the merger with Atlanta which will be definitely decided on September 28, by a referendum to Kirkwood citizens, the election having been authorized by legislative action.

Rumors were afloat prior to the meeting that members of the opposition were going to attend in numbers and force the issue to a debate, although the meeting was called by proponents.

About two hundred people were present. The purpose of calling the meeting was to give the citizens a chance to express their views on the proposed merger.

Mr. Gilliam, who presided, charged that certain citizens of Kirkwood, who are opposed to the merger, used their influence in attempting to prevent the passage of the bill by the legislature, declaring that they were afraid to put the question to a majority vote.

Members of the opposition have announced a meeting in Kirkwood on Friday night. All of the anti-merger faction, most of whom are members of the "League to Keep Kirkwood," are invited to attend this meeting.

The opposition has organized committees, each of the four wards having representation and chairmen state they are systematically planning to combat the efforts of the merger supporters.

less the money to run them is forthcoming.

The appeal of President Gaines follows: "The greatest thing about the city charter amendment now voted on August 31 is not the increase of the city tax rate from $1.35 to $1.50, although that provision will enable the schools to open for the fall term and that is a matter of very great importance. But there is a provision in the proposed amendment of more importance than that."

Representatives of the schools were able to get incorporated in the amendment certain changes in the school sections of the city charter which are exceedingly advantageous to the Atlanta schools. These changes are:

The schools are to get 4 per cent more of the city's income, and they are to get the whole of the state school fund and all the non-resident tuition. This will mean about $550,000 per year for the schools, more than we are receiving now. The amendment is a great gain. It means a satisfactory and a permanent provision for our schools for next year, and the next year and for all time to come. For twenty years we have been working for such a charter for our schools. The opportunity is here now to get it. We must not let it slip.

Only a few of the amendment fails to carry, what then? Where would we be next year? We would be thrown back upon the old basis. We would be worse off than ever. Until this year we have had the emergency tax to help us. The emergency tax could not be levied another year; for if it is invalid this year it would be invalid another year. So the 22 per cent of the city's income would be all that we could have to rely on. And as we know, that only runs our schools about two-thirds of the year. So the condition another year, with only 22 per cent of the city's income and without any emergency tax would be fearful to think about.

"Let us get a good school charter while we can. We will have the chance on August 31. Let us not throw off the track by extraneous issues. Let us vote for the schools."

Unless taxpayers of Atlanta are willing to pay an additional 25 cents tax on each $100 of taxable property $2,000 children of Atlanta will be deprived of half a year's education this year, and the harm done the city will be greater than can be repaired in a generation, declared Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, on Monday night, in addressing a meeting of second ward voters, held in the auditorium of the Crow Street school in the interest of the proposed tax rate increase.

Mayor Key, Dr. John A. Hardin, Mrs. J. E. Andrews, member of the board of visitors of the Crow Street school, each urged that the tax rate increase be passed, and that the citizens of the second ward take it up themselves to go out and work hard to guarantee its passage.

Superintendent Sutton delivered a plea for the schools. He said that it was not his business to tell taxpayers to vote for the schools, but he would urge them to do so.

one how to vote, or to force his opinion on them. He said that he believed that when the citizens of Atlanta understood the situation, and came to realize that it was the plain, unvarnished truth that the schools would be closed, the bonds rendered null and void, and the city greatly harmed if the tax rate increase was not granted, that they would rally to it, and go out and work for enough votes to put it over.

Will Be Paying Less.

He said that by voting the extra 25 cents increase, taxpayers would still be paying less than they did last year when he declared, a total of $1.52 on each $100 was collected. He also explained in detail how the new law would provide everything and more than the most ardent friend of the schools of Atlanta had ever asked, and that the department would be so provided for that no matter how large Atlanta grew to be, the schools would always be well taken care of, and would expand as the city grew.

"It all narrows down to 25 cents on one hand, against 32,000 children on the other," said Mr. Sutton. "We refuse to grant the 25 cents increase, and 32,000 children are deprived of a half year's education—set back a half year for all the rest of their lives. Nobody, of course, wants his taxes increased. It's perfectly logical for taxpayers to say they don't, but when they're told just what it means to our children, to the citizens of tomorrow, I just can't see how anybody could object to granting that extra quarter."

"I didn't come out here to scare you, or to frighten you into passing this increase. I tell you when we pay our teachers their August salaries we'll have less than $50,000 to run until January 1, and it takes over $500,000 to do it. We just can't do it, unless we get this increase. Nobody on earth could run a department for $50,000 that required $500,000. But, if we get this increase our schools can operate, and we can go ahead. We can't if we don't, and that all there is to it."

Spent in Salaries.

Mr. Sutton declared that all of the money that came into the school department went out in salaries and expenses. He explained that only 1 per cent of the gross revenue of the school department was used for administration purposes.

Mayor Key reiterated his charge that a certain group of citizens were working to defeat the tax increase and close the schools so that it might overthrow the present government and gain control itself. He declared that the harm done Atlanta by the closing of its schools would be irreparable, and about the worst thing that could happen to the city.

He pointed out that more than 1,000 people would be thrown out of employment, and that wages would be greatly reduced. He said that if it were in his power he would vote the increase himself, and take the consequences. He declared the failure of the citizens of Atlanta to pass the increase would be the most suicidal thing that they could do.

The Crow Street school auditorium was well filled, and the audience enthusiastically received the several addresses in favor of the tax increase.

SAY WOODALL WILL WIN.

Reports by leaders of various "flying squadrons" operating in the third ward in the interest of the candidacy of Fred C. Woodall for re-election as councilman to the effect that sentiment throughout the ward is unanimous for Mr. Woodall, featured a meeting of third ward citizens at the home of Roy Almand, 83 Bryant street, Monday night.

Another feature was the denial by Councilman Woodall, of reports circulated by his political enemies that he is the candidate of the Georgia Railway and Power company. "This is mere cheap political chicanery," Mr. Woodall declared. "I am the candidate of no machine."

clique nor combination, but I am running for re-election at the request of the most prominent citizens of the ward. The people will not be deceived by cheap trickery."

"Flying squadrons" leaders reported that they covered practically the entire ward for Mr. Woodall and are convinced that the election will result in a landslide for him.

T. R. Stephenson presided at the meeting and speeches were made by W. W. Brooks, J. E. West, T. W. Welch, W. A. Brower, Thomas Brinsfield, Virgil Warren, W. B. Hartfield.

The next Woodall meeting will be held next Friday night, the hour and place to be announced later.

Professor W. A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, will speak on the proposed tax rate increase tonight at 8 o'clock before the Parent-Teacher association of the Edgewood Avenue school in the school auditorium. Citizens of that section and every one interested in the proposed increase have been invited to attend.
